

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                        |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Temi Otunotun@ualberta.ca   Personal Website   Linkedin                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                        |
| EDUCATION                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                        |
| University of AlbertaBachelor of Science, Major in Computing Science –Artificial Intelligence Specialization• Relevant Coursework: Algorithms I, Machine Learning II, Software Engineering, Database Management, Reinforcement Learning, Linear Algebra II, Calculus III, Artificial Intelligence, Applied Statistics II, Computer Architecture I, Ethics of Data Science and Artificial Intelligence, Search and Planning in Artificial Intelligence• Awards: Jason Lang Scholarship                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Expected April 2027Edmonton, AB       |
| EXPERIENCE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                        |
| Incoming Data Engineering InternRBC Amplify• Will collaborate with a cross-functional student team to design and prototype a data-driven solution addressing a real RBC business challenge through rapid iteration and experimentation• Expected to contribute to data engineering workflows, including pipeline development, data modeling, and cloud-based ETL processes to support analytics and product integration for the final Amplify project demo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | May 2026– August 2026Vancouver BC     |
| Machine Learning InternThe Metabolomics Innovation Centre• Enhanced long-range temperature forecasting system, resulting in up to 47% lower MAE with an average 24.3% improvement across a six-year test set compared to previous approaches• Developed multivariate time series models for precipitation forecasting, incorporating 100+ climate features and outperforming baseline models in 73% of test years• Assembled forecasting pipelines with advanced feature engineering and benchmarked 20+ ML models, attaining a 42% accuracy improvement over baseline methods• Automated SQL pipelines to ingest weather and climate data from APIs and web scrapers, generating new feature combinations to support testing and improvement of forecasting models | January 2025 – August 2025Edmonton AB |
| Machine Learning Research AssistantUniversity of Alberta• Contributed to 3 machine learning systems in computational psychiatry and predictive healthcare, including dementia detection and ECG signal modeling on large scale clinical datasets, improving diagnostic accuracy• Synthesized insights from 40+ research seminars, on survival analysis and disease prediction, applying advanced statistical and ML methods to strengthen ongoing projects• Documenting and analyzing 15+ ML experiments, applying feature engineering, hyperparameter tuning, and evaluation pipelines to improve performance across classification and regression tasks                                                                                                                                           | September 2024 – PresentEdmonton AB   |
| Data Management InternInfoStrux• Optimized 25+ SQL queries in Snowflake, reducing execution time by up to 60% and boosting performance of business intelligence dashboards• Partnered with a senior data engineer to design Snowflake staging and curated layers for 3 datasets; wrote and tuned 30+ queries, improving data reusability and cutting time-to-insight by 40%• Constructed and maintained 10 database schemas in Snowflake to support diverse data types, improving pipeline efficiency and data flow                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | January 2024 – May 2024Vancouver, BC  |
| PROJECTS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                        |
| Emotion Detection Neural Network Github• Trained a deep convolutional neural network (CNN) in PyTorch on the FER 2013 dataset (32k+ labeled images), utilizing OpenCV for multi-class facial emotion recognition• Achieved 70% test accuracy across 7 emotion classes, outperforming baseline models by 15%, and integrated webcam inference to enable real-time emotion detection• Incorporated preprocessing techniques (grayscale normalization, resizing, augmentation) with RELU activations and batch normalization, to improve model accuracy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | August 2025                                      |
| Personal Website Github• Launched a personal portfolio with React and Tailwind CSS, hosted on Vercel with backend email integration on Render, providing a platform showcasing AI/ML and software projects• Improved user experience with interactive UI features, leveraging Framer Motion, Vanta.js, and React-Scroll for animations and dynamic backgrounds                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | June 2025                                        |
| Lung Cancer Detection Github• Accomplished a recall score of 99%, accuracy score of 94%, precision score of 95%, and f1 score of 97% on the best classification model• Built and compared multiple ML models (SVM, k-NN, Random Forest) to determine the most effective classification approach• Applied preprocessing techniques including SMOTE, and k-fold cross-validation to address class imbalance and improve model performance                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | January 2025                                     |
| Research• Refined ML models on audio datasets for early detection of dementia and mild cognitive impairment, tackling both classification and regression tasks• Developed a Random Forest model for the ICASSP 2025 SPGC challenge, achieving accurate patient classification into 3 diagnostic categories with evaluation scores• Explored self-supervised and pre-trained models from prior research, improving predictive metrics (F1, recall, precision, and RMSE) compared to baseline models                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | September 2024 – November 2024                   |
| SKILLS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                        |
| Programming: C, Java, Python, SQLLibraries &amp; Frameworks: PyTorch, TensorFlow, scikit-learn, NumPy, Pandas, OpenCV, Matplotlib, Darts, Nixtla, React, Tailwind CSSTools &amp; Platforms: Git, Linux, Bitbucket, Docker, SnowflakeSpoken Languages: English, Yoruba                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                        |